Misses Annie Bell and Lila Fennel who have been attending the Asheville Female College during the last term came home on Wednesday to spend their vacation.

Judging from the candidates column in the Greenville News, and the Abbeville Press and Banner, the first mentioned county is far abead of the last in patriotte men, who are willing to serve it, and the dear people. In the first there are 30, in the last only 11, but we are not at all uneasy, old Abbeville, will in this, as she has ever been in all other matters, nobly carry her "end of the single-tree" and will in this instance be in full force, when the struggle comes on.

Mr. Theron Allen a Clemson Cadet came in Wednesday for the boildays.

Monday night the closing exercises of our High Scoool took place. Aithough it had rained considerable that evening and gave promise of more rain, yet the people from all directions came in tiil the gathering far exceeded the capacity of the school building, not much more than half of the crowd could be accommodated with even standing room inside. The announcement had gone forth that Col. M. F. Ansel of Creenville, was to deliver the literary address, which doubtless was the greater part of the attraction, and brought out the unusually large crowd.

Col. Ansel is well known to many of our people and is highly esteemed by all. He is so good and true a man, that he could not but be popular where ever known. He delivered an address that was hard to beat, was attentively listened to, and will indoubt bear fruit in the days to come. Sometime ago the teachers, Prof. J. F. Harper Principal and Prof. H. H. Harris Assistant, offered a prize to the scholars in their respective departments along certain lines. At the close of Mr. Ansel's address the presentation of the medals, took place.

Col. Ansel presented a gold medal, to Miss Fannie May Moorebead, in Prof. Harris department for her proficiancy in spelling.

Prof. Harper presented a prize each to Birdle Bell, Mattle Lee Cooley, Claude Armstrong and A. L. Latimer. This endea the exercises and aside from its having been s very interesting occasion to all concerned, its one to be remembered because of Dr. Bingham's splendid sermon ou Sunday, and Mr. Ansel's fine literary effort, Mondaynight. At a late meeting of the Lowndesville Bank Stock holders, a board of directiors were elected as follows, Messrs I. H. McCalla, B.F. Mauldin Annerson, T. D. Cooley, E. W. Harper, E. R. Horton, E. L. Mrs B. A. Bell and her daughter left Saturday morning for Franklin Springs, Ga. where they expect to stay for some time.

Miss Louise Barber of the Williamston Female College Faculty, came in Saturday evening, and will spend her vacation here. Saturday and Saturday night were quite cool, so much so, that some of us older ones, drew on thicker clothing and rekindled sometime discarded fire in our dining roum. Saturday morning Maj, J. G. Huckabee was notified, that Jerry Stevens an old colored man, had been found dead, in his field, on Mr. J. P. Young, s place, three miles out. The Magistrate accompanied by Dr. L. O Kirkpatrick went down, a jury of inquest was empannelled, an examination of the body made by the Dr. and the two combined could find no grounds for any other verdict, than that the deceased came to his death from natural causes.

Mr. Hugh Wilson editor, and pro-prietor of the Abbeville Press and Banner, has sold his paper, plant and good will to W. W. & W. R. Bradley, of Abbeville. Mr. Wilson will continue to edit the paper indefinitely. He has been associated with the paper for forty-five years and is largely identifi-ed with the growth and prosperity of Abbeville. Messrs. Bradley were reared in that county and are identified with its every interest and are educated and popular residents.-Johnston

The Weevil Eater.

Dr. Cook says the ant he has dis covered in South America is a natural enemy of the cotton boll weevil, destroying the pest before it reaches the cotton bolls. Dr. Cook believes that if the ant can be acclimated in the United States it will put an end to the weevil. Secretary Wilson cabled him to bring him some of the ants home with him. They will be placed in the Texas cotton fields, and it is hoped will be closed Monday and Tuesday, that they will thrive in this country. If they live through the winter they will be brought further north and introduced to a colder climate. Secretary Wilson has had a special bullet-in printed. It says: "If the cotton ant can survive a long dry season and perhaps cold weather in the table-land of Guatemala it might easily learn to hibernate in Texas, as has the boll hibernate in Texas, as has the boll will positively end on Saturday night weevil. The Augusta Chronicle says "the anti-boll-weevil ant may yet prove the savation of the Texas cotton fields, and the energetic, as well as the sluggish, be called upon to consider her ways, since it pays." We hope it will.

Ants Destroy Weevils. A dispatch from San Antonia, Texas, says Jose Cassiano, former county collector, who has several hundred acres of cotton in that county is the barer of good tidings concerning the work of red ants. Mr. Cassiano's fields, less than a month ago, were alive with boll weevils. Today he said there is not a live weevil in his fields. The rows are strewn with dead weevils, which the busy little red ants are carrying a-way by thousands. Mr. Cassiano says a close inspection failed to show a single live weevil on a cotton plant anywhere in his fields. The ants are on the plants and the rows between in countless thousands. They seem to have completed the slaughter of the weevils and are now engaged in carrying the corpses aways, probably to be stored for food.

DOCTORING POULTRY.

The average poultryman should be very careful of the medicine with which he doses his flock, as sometimes the medicine is as bad as the disease, sensibly advises Brice Haynes, in Poultry success. The cheapest and best medicine we have been able to get is ordinary plastering lime; it sells for $1 a barrel in our town, and a little goes a long way and does lots of good while it is going. I have not had any cholera on my place for six years, and I attribute the general good health of my fowls to the liberal use of lime. Some of the good uses I have found for it are as follows:

When I see signs of soiled feathers, I throw a little lime in their drinking water; it seems to be a good regulator. It is a good disinfectant, and, after cleaning the dropping board, throw a handful down; it is wonderful how lime will kill all bad oders. worth $1 to $1.25 stiff bosoms, 69c.

Shirts.-Negligee, fancy percales, with or without collars worth 50 and 75c, lice won't loaf around there much. notice they won't take many steps in the lime until their relations send for the undertaker.

When one of your hens gets ready to take the regulation three-weeks' layoff, throw some lime in each corner o her nest. Some lime thrown down around outbuildings will dry up the wet places.

When your hens are laying softshell eggs, throw lime where they can get it. I have seen lime water stop a threatened case of cholera in good shape.—Exchange.

Special attention given to small depositors. This bank, as its name implies is the people's bank. Deposits in any bank is the safest thing on earth. There is scarcely a possibility of loss. All the stock of the bank is bound for it. Then, don't do a foolish thing in trying to keep your money in cracks and crannies about your house, where it may be considered as a premium to thieves. Men have lost money in stockings, and hair trunks have been carried away. Bureau drawers and great wooden chests, with padlocks on them, have been robbed. Good natured men, with ready cash, have been known to lend their earnings to the wrong man. Men have been known to loss money in all the pursuits of life. Women have been known to place their estates, like their hands and hearts, in the keeping of the wrong man, but who ever heard of a depositor in a bank lossing his money?

Without health we cannot have happy homes. To have the dear mother or father an invalid sheds a gloom over the household, hence we need to study intelligently the laws of

DALE'S STOMACH TABLETS.

Mr. R. E. Jones, buyer for Parker & Bridget, whose large department stores are located at 9th and Penn. Ave. Washington, D. C., writes, under date of April 14. '04, as follows: Last February, one year, while 'in New York on business for my house, I cought a severe cold, which laid me up for several weeks and left me weak and nerveous. I had little or no appetite, and my digestion was very poor. My physician could not get at the cause of my trouble, as my digestion seemed so much impaired. I decided to try Rydale's Stomach Tablets, being assured by a friend, they were a good-dyspepsia medicine. After using them for a few days, I began to realize that I was getting better. I gave up the doctor's prescription and have gained 20 prunds while using two boxes of these tablets. I never felt better in my life, and accredit Rydale's Stomach Tablets with having cured me. I can recomend them, most heartily, to sufferers from nervous indigestion and general rundown conditions of the system. C. A. Milford.
